Name: _____ Date: _____

Native American Heritage Month

Reading Passage 1 • Grades K–3

Every November, many people in the United States celebrate Native American Heritage Month. This month is a time to learn about Native American people, cultures, languages, and traditions. Native American communities have lived on this land for a very long time. They share stories, music, art, and special traditions with families and communities. Native American Heritage Month helps us remember to learn with respect and to honor the many tribes and nations.

Questions

1. In what month do people celebrate Native American Heritage Month?

   _____

   _____

2. What are two things people can learn about during this month?

   _____

   _____

3. Why is this month important?

   _____

   _____

4. Draw or write one thing you learned.

   _____

   _____

   _____

   _____

Name: _____ Date: _____

Native American Heritage Month

Reading Passage 2 • Grades K–3

Homes and Communities

Native American tribes and nations are diverse. Long ago and today, Native American people have built homes that fit their land, weather, and way of life. Some groups built pueblos. Some built longhouses. Some built wigwams, and others built different kinds of homes. Today, Native American families live in many places, including cities, towns, and tribal communities. Every tribe and nation is special and unique.

Questions

1. Are all Native American homes the same?

_____

_____

2. Name two kinds of homes from the passage.

_____

_____

3. Where do Native American families live today?

_____

_____

4. What does the word “unique” mean in this passage?

_____

_____

_____